Handy extra

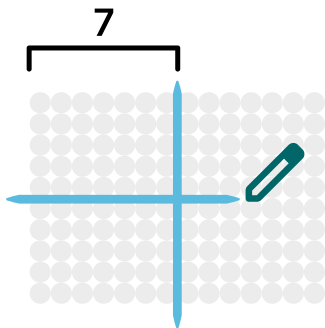

This is what you've received from us:

1. A layout plan for your DotDotDo®
2. Numbered dots
3. Small filler pieces for the dots along the edges
4. Mounting dots

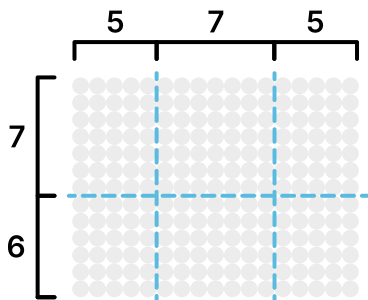

Handy extra: use painter's tape to mark your wall. This makes hanging everything much easier.

Before you start... Read through this entire manual first so you'll know exactly what to do. Also make sure you have a clean, dust-free, and flat surface. A table is ideal, but the floor works too. Gather your dots and place them in order.

Step 1 – Plan your layout

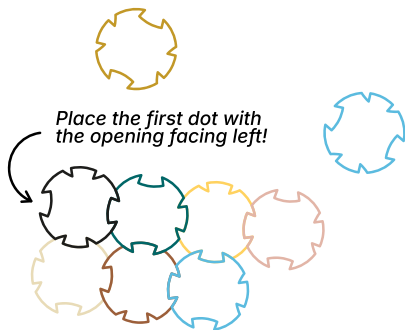

Grab your layout plan. First, we're going to divide your plan into tiles. This way you'll build your DotDotDo® in parts, which will make it much easier to mount on the wall later. Divide your plan into tiles of a maximum of 7 by 7 dots. In some cases, tiles may be bigger or smaller depending on the size of your DotDotDo®. Make sure that the height of all tiles in the same row is always the same.

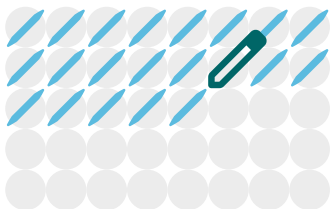

The quantities are shown as an example

Tip: If possible, choose an odd number of dots for the width of your tiles, and try to divide the tiles into equal sizes. This makes hanging everything much easier.

Step 2 – Time to puzzle!

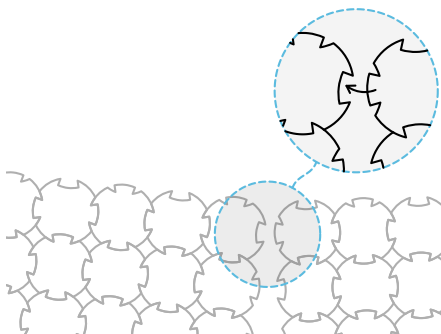

Assemble the dots following your plan. Make sure the numbers on the back of the dots face downward. Start with the tile in the top-left corner. Place the first dot with the opening facing left and work from top-left to bottom-right.

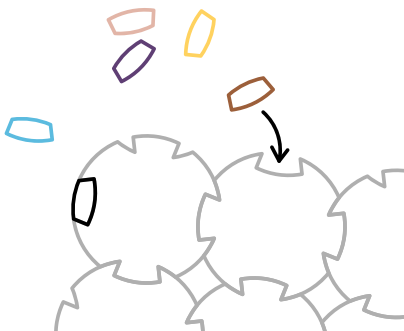

Tip: Cross off the dots on your plan as you place them to keep track of your progress.

Keep going!

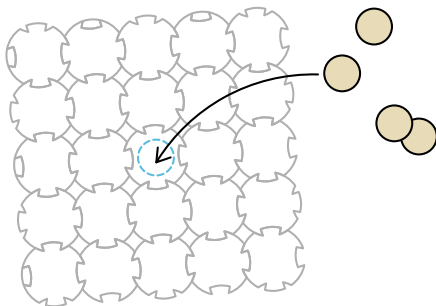

Complete the remaining tiles in the same way.
As you puzzle, make sure the tiles align properly.

Once all tiles are complete, finish the outer tiles by pressing the small filler pieces into the openings of the dots along the edges, creating a clean finish.

Step 3 – Prepare the mounting

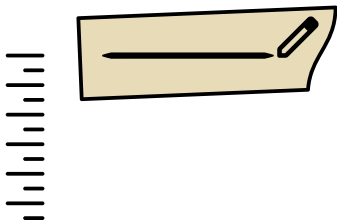

All done puzzling? Then flip your tiles over. Take the mounting circles and stick one circle onto the dot in the center of each tile.

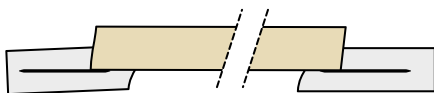

Important: press them firmly in place for a few seconds and rub over them well, so the adhesive layer bonds optimally to the dot.

Then flip the tiles back over and place them loosely next to one another. This already gives you a great first impression of your DotDotDo®. Don't forget to take a moment to enjoy it ;-)

Step 4 — Prepare your wall

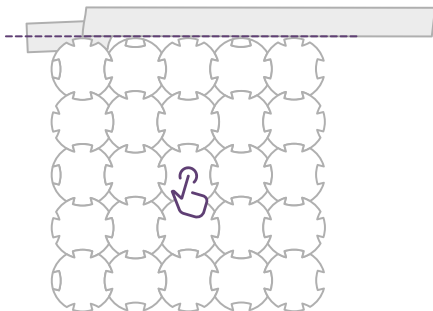

Time to choose the perfect spot for your DotDotDo®. Make sure the wall is clean, grease-free, and not too rough. Determine where the top-left corner of your DotDotDo® will be. Mark this spot using a piece of painter's tape. Do the same for the top-right corner. Check that both markings are at the same height—this helps you hang your DotDotDo® perfectly straight.

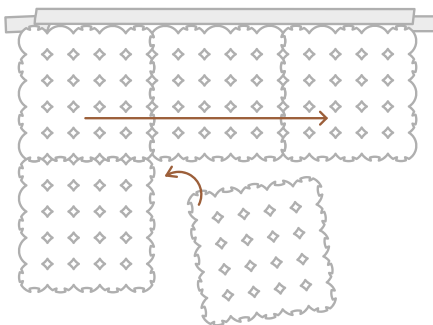

Next, stretch a piece of painter's tape between the two marks. This will be your guide while hanging.

Step 5 – Hang your DotDotDo®

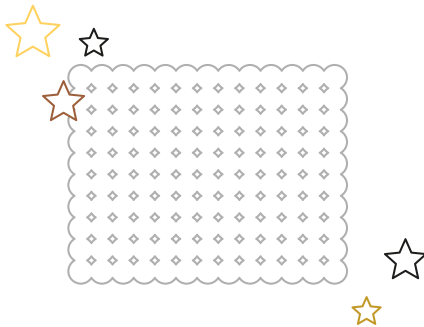

Take the tile that goes in the top-left position. Remove the protective film from the mounting circle and stick the tile directly below the left marking on the wall.

Important: press firmly on the center of the dot for a few seconds, so it adheres properly to the wall.

Then take the tile that goes directly to the right of the first one. Remove the protective film and press the tile into the edge of the first tile. Keep the mounting point slightly away from the wall for now. Make sure the tile is aligned with the painter's tape. Then press firmly on the mounting point in the center.

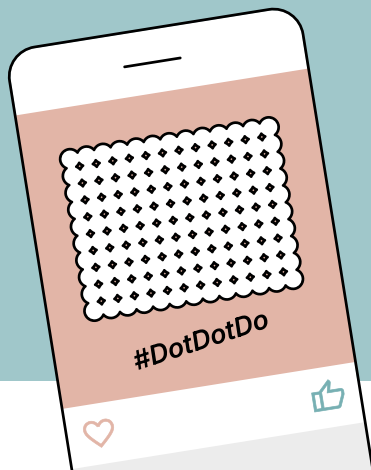

Continue building your DotDotDo® tile by tile. Again, work from top-left to bottom-right. When your DotDotDo® is fully mounted, gently remove the painter's tape from the wall.

Et voilà... DotDotDone!

Tip: after one day, check your DotDotDo® again and press the dots with mounting rounds firmly once more for extra-strong adhesion.
